

British Values

7th-13th October

Individual Liberty

In emergencies, people need to be able to find us and technology can help locate us quickly.

There may be other times when we don't want everyone to know our location – it's important to be in control of the information we share.